"HOME RULE" FACTION IN STATE CONVENTION SUFFERS DEFEAT

Motion to Consider All Resolutions Independent of Platform Committee is Lost

WOULD THROW OUT REPORT

Defeat of Motion Closes Way For Introduction of Radical Plank That Was Proposed

PLEDGE TAX REDUCTION

Several Planks With This End in View Included in Democratic Platform to be Presented

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., June 1.—The "home rule" faction in the democratic state convention suffered its initial defeat today when a motion to consider all resolutions independent of the platform committee was voted down 680 to 577.

This would have thrown the conservative report of the platform committee out of the convention and would have left the way open for consideration of the radical planks calling for abolition of the public service commission, board of accounts and highway commission and similar steps.

Charles Giffin, delegate from Vigo county, moved consideration of all resolutions without delay and W. W. Spencer, leader of the "home rule" faction, seconded it. The motion was defeated at the instance of E. H. Campbell of Anderson. It was presented while the oratory was at its height and would have disrupted the orderly procedure.

Lower cost of operating state government and consequent reduction in taxes is the outstanding pledge of Indiana democracy in the fall campaign as outlined by the platform committee for adoption by the state convention today.

Several planks toward this end were laid by the committee in all night session. Among them were:

1. Repeal of the present tax law and re-enactment of the law previously in effect.

2. "Home rule" in the matter of bond issues by passage of a law requiring a referendum on issues over a certain limit.

3. Amendment of the utility law to restore the usefulness of the public service commission, or if this is not done, repeal of the law in its entirety.

4. Enactment of legislation to limit the power of the state board of health in condemnation of schools and other public buildings.

5. Limitation of the activities of

GRAND JURY BRINGS IN 11 INDICTMENTS

Warrants For Arrest of Alleged Law Violators Are Issued Today—Charges Not Known

50 WITNESSES IN INQUIRY

The grand jury concluded their investigations late Wednesday afternoon, and returned eleven indictments as the result of their two day session, when they met last Friday, and again yesterday.

Warrants for the arrest of the eleven offenders were ordered drawn this morning by the court, but it may be several days before all of the arrests are made. The nature of the eleven charges will not be disclosed until the arrests are made.

While the investigators were in session, there were about 50 witnesses from various parts of the county before them, and judging from recent activities in some localities, it is believed that intoxication and perhaps gaming charges might be included in the list.

The present term of court will not end until June 30, when the summer vacation of two months will begin then.

VANNUYS SOUNDS STATE KEYNOTE

Charges Republicans With Extravagance and Mismanagement in State and National Governments

OPENS DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN

Challenges G. O. P. in Behalf of "United, Confident, Determined" Democracy in Speech

Indianapolis, June 1.—Charging republicans with extravagance and mismanagement in state and national governments, and with questionable handling of state funds, Frederick VanNuys struck the keynote of the democratic campaign in Indiana today.

VanNuys challenged the G. O. P. in behalf of "a united, confident and determined" democracy while addressing the democratic state convention in the capacity of temporary chairman.

"The democratic party today once more renews its allegiance to the faith of the fathers," he said. "Upon the rugged principles of frugality, simplicity and honesty, we build a nation rich and by the return to those same virtues we propose to build the nation strong."

"In this spirit, proud of our past and confident of our future, the democratic party of Indiana today invokes your aid."

VanNuys laid the blame for business depression upon republican rejection of the Versailles treaty and refusal to "cooperate in the subsequent economic conferences." American trade expansion depends upon world conditions, VanNuys said, and business stagnation would never have visited the United States if European markets were opened.

In this connection he criticized Senators New and Watson for their votes against the league of nations covenant.

Opening his address, VanNuys referred to the recent republican state convention as follows:

"In the past we had believed that the democratic party had been the heir to all possible party disaffections and conflicting personal ambitions, but in light of recent developments in the republican party we now look with complacency and composure upon our petty differences of the past and like a chosen people exclaim: 'Behold how good and pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity.'"

A Bible Thought Each Day

Beginning with today, the Daily Republican will print each day at the end of the editorial column one verse from the Bible with the heading, "Bible Thought For Today." The selections are made by the Bible Bureau, Cincinnati, which is now supplying newspapers in the United States with a combined circulation of one million.

The Bible to the Bible Bureau was organized January 1, 1920, and was incorporated October 5, 1921. The purpose as set forth in the charter granted by the secretary of State of Ohio reads as follows:

"The object of the Bureau is to secure the co-operation of editors and publishers throughout the United States and other countries, in an effort to reach the great masses of the people daily with a helpful and inspiring Bible message, and thus inculcate in the minds of readers a greater reverence for the Supreme Ruler and a desire for better things in government and all industrial and social relations."

Old Receipts Are To Be Displayed At The Centennial

Documents Dating Back to 1827 And 1835 Respectively Loaned to Relics Committee by Nora G. Rardin, Whose Father, One Shows, Paid 48 Cents Tax on Horse and 3 Cows.

INVITATIONS BEING SENT OUT

The county centennial relics committee has two interesting documents dating back to the early period of the county. One is a receipt for taxes and the other is a receipt for payment of a loan of $20 given by William Rardin to his son, William Rardin, Jr.

Both are the property of Nora G. Rardin and have been promised to the committee for display at the centennial relics exhibit.

The receipt for taxes discloses that taxes in those days were not the source of complaint that they are today for William Rardin, Jr., father of Nora Rardin, only paid 48 cents taxes on a horse and three cows.

The receipt read as follows: "Received of William Rardin, Jr., 48 cents state, county and township tax on 1 horse, 3 cows for year 1827."

J. W. ROBERTSON, Treasurer.

The receipt given when a loan was repaid was complete in that it covered all time. It was as follows:

"Received of William Rardin, Junior 20 dollars of borrowed money, it being all lawful demands against him from the beginning of year 1827."

DEFENSE RESTS IN CARL MURDER CASE

Clara Gibson Carl, Alleged Feminine Bluebeard, Last to Testify Before State Begins Rebuttal

ARGUMENTS STARTED TODAY

Defendant Meets Every Situation In Cross Examination With Apparent Sincerity

(By United Press)

Shelbyville, Ind., June 1.—Attorneys for Clara Gibson Carl, alleged feminine bluebeard, rested their case today in her murder trial on a charge of poisoning Frank Carl her second husband.

The widow was the last to testify in the defense. The state immediately started introducing rebuttal testimony and it appeared the arguments would be ended tonight.

Mrs. Carl exposed herself to merciless cross-examination yesterday afternoon and during the fifteen minutes she was on the stand today.

While the state shook the alleged skeletons in the closet of her past life, she met every situation with frankness and apparent sincerity. When some questions were hurled at her, the reply would be:

"I want to be honest in this. I don't remember. I don't know. I can't say."

Leaning forward over the witness stand, the woman clasped her hands before her and answered the questions in a clear voice ringing with controlled emotions.

At times she paused briefly before making her answers and at other times she appealed to the court to be permitted to explain certain points more fully without being required to answer merely "yes" or "no."

The woman as she faced the attorneys and the jury seemed to have no fear of the outcome of the battle. She emphatically denied she ever bought arsenic and that she administered poison to anyone.

Defense attorneys didn't seek to refute testimony which the state had introduced to show that Mrs. Carl had also poisoned Alonzo Carl father of Frank, and Robert Gibson, her first husband.

AN ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE IS SEEN

Mauerta Buell, 15, Milroy High School Girl, Found With Bullet Wound in Her Breast

ON THRESHOLD OF HER HOME

Bullet Will Not be Removed Unless Blood Poisoning Develops—Cause of Attempt Uncertain

What is believed to have been an attempt at suicide took place Tuesday afternoon in Milroy when Mauerta Buell, age 15, a high school student of that place, was found prostrate in the front door of the Buell home with a bullet in her chest, and unless complications arise, she is expected to recover.

Many rumors are afloat in Milroy concerning the affair, and it is stated that the young girl attempted suicide once before but a revolver was taken from her.

According to the rumors, it is stated that Miss Buell had been having trouble with her sweetheart, a school boy of that place, and because things had not gone just to suit her, she is believed to have turned the gun on herself with the purpose of taking her life.

The revolver, which was a small 22 calibre, was discharged close to her breast, and the cartridge lodged above her heart, and between that vital organ and her lungs. The bullet was not removed yet today, as physicians decided to wait until developments arose which would make it necessary for an operation.

An aunt of the girl was the only one at home at the time, and she heard the shot, and ran immediately to the front of the house, where she discovered the girl lying across the threshold in an unconscious condition.

It is stated that there was no one in sight, and that the girl has refused to discuss the matter with her friends. The accident happened about 3:30 Tuesday afternoon.

The physicians are afraid that blood poisoning may develop from the bullet, but it is understood that they will not attempt to get it out unless it is absolutely necessary to do so in order to save her life.

The girl, who is said to be very attractive, is the daughter of Bert Buell.

County's Pioneer Lawyers

Attorneys Who Practiced Law Here During 100 Years of Rush County's Existence Distinguished Themselves in Many Fields of Activities, Becoming Senators, Cabinet Members, Governors and Holding High Judicial Positions.

By WILL M. SPARKS

Since 1822 more than two hundred attorneys have been admitted to practice in the court of Rush county, not including honorary admission or non-resident attorneys admitted in recent years. It must be remembered that in considering the men who practiced at this bar in the earlier years we view them at a great distance in the point of time, for it is now more than one hundred years since the courts of justice were established in this county.

The lawyer as well as everyone else is inclined to at least give true value to the abilities and characteristics of those who have preceded us and to minimize the same things with relation to the men who are now carrying on. This is due largely I think to the intervention of time and a failure to make the proper comparison between conditions as they then existed and as they now exist. The lawyer of today has a larger and more varied practice than his predecessor and by reason of the hundreds of decisions which have been rendered daily during the last fifty or more years, his work in preparing his cases is much greater than the lawyer of the earlier days when decisions were comparatively few, and the courts and the legal fraternity were engaged largely in the establishing of precedents, which of course required original thought but less research than now.

Many of the attorneys of this county and others who attended her courts became eminent in law, politics and public service. One of the most eminent men who first practiced at this bar was Charles H. Test. He came here a young man, able and ambitious. He greatly distinguished himself by his powerful and successful defense of Alexander Young, indicted for the murder of John Points in 1827, and from that time forward he occupied the first ranks in his profession. He was afterwards judge of the criminal court of Indianapolis.

Another early lawyer of great ability was Samuel Bigger, afterwards judge of the circuit court and later governor of the state. Hugh B. Eggleston was a splendid lawyer; a fine scholar and later distinguished himself at the New Orleans bar. W. J. Brown was prosecuting attorney for some years, was afterwards member of congress, secretary of state of Indiana and assistant postmaster general under James K. Polk.

George B. Tingley was a man of

GRANTS RIGHT TO REPLEVIN

Justice J. P. Stech Finds For the Plaintiff, Fred Hilligoss

A suit to replevin a horse valued at $150 was heard in Justice Stech's court Wednesday, and the court awarded Fred Hilligoss, plaintiff in the action, the right to replevin the horse from Larry Richey and Thomas Shroyer, the two defendants. The plaintiff filed the suit last week, in which he alleged that the two defendants were unlawfully retaining the animal, and at that time the court took charge of the horse until the case could be settled.

The evidence was completed late in the afternoon, and the decision in the matter was entered this morning. It is understood that the defendants will file an appeal to the circuit court on the decision.

REAL ESTATE TAX VALUES OFF A FOURTH

Assessors Reports at Hand Indicate Decline of Twenty-Five Per Cent in Assessments.

REVIEW BOARD MEETS JUNE 5

Although all of the township assessors have not made a report on the spring assessment of real estate and personal property to the county assessor, Earl F. Priest, judging from the reports which have been made, land and improvements will average about $136 an acre in taxation value. This is the average which the reports now at hand show.

After the horizontal increase had been put on by the state tax board in 1919, when the last assessment of real estate was made, the average was $182 an acre. If the average this year proves to be $136, it will represent a decrease of twenty-five per cent. The county assessor predicted before the assessing season began that the real estate tax values would fall off about one-fourth.

The county board of review meets next Monday to review the assessments of property of all classes. The board will be in session until July 12, the law providing that in counties with a population of less than 20,000, the board should be in session thirty-eight running days. There are six Sundays during this period, which means the board will be in actual session thirty-two days.

DEATH BLOW GIVEN PROPOSED INQUIRY

House Rules Committee Revokes Its Action in Reporting Favorably Woodruff-Johnson Resolution

AIM AT JUSTICE DEPARTMENT

Washington, June 1.—The Woodruff-Johnson resolution providing for an investigation of the alleged laxity of the department of justice and the war department in prosecuting war grafters was given its death blow today.

By a vote of 7 to 4 the house rules committee revoked its action of May 3, when it ordered the resolution reported to the house.

Originally the committee voted 6 to 5 to pass the investigation.

Attorney General Daugherty announced he was going to devote all the time possible to the prosecution of pending war graft cases. The attorney general has given up his vacation and will not go to the National Bar association meeting at San Francisco.

Hinting to his assailants in congress, Daugherty said, "now that the grand jury is handy, anyone who really wants to help the government can do so voluntarily or otherwise and lend assistance in a dignified and decent way."

The attorney general himself does not consider himself above the law. Daugherty declined to answer Senator Watson's charge that he ordered the freeing of the large amount of liquor seized in New York and the freeing of the men involved.

SURE GUIDANCE:—In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths.—
Proverbs, 3:6.

Too Much Self

Over in the old world the war goes merrily on in their efforts to preserve peace.

To the careful observer on this side of the Atlantic, however, there appears to be one necessary element that is almost entirely lacking. The welfare of humanity is forgotten. It has been side-tracked in favor of self-interest and greed.

It is readily conceded that the nations desire lasting peace, but each wants that peace on terms that predominate in their own favor.

The league of nations is a failure for that reason and the Genoa confab was tarred with the same brush.

Now they are planning for a future meet to be held at The Hague, and unless history reverses itself the same road will be traveled there.

President Harding's declination to send American delegates to The Hague conference next month was just what was expected. It would have been most surprising if the administration had seen fit to accede to the allied invitation.

The conditions that will surround the meeting at The Hague are no whit different from those attending the conference at Genoa, and no reason has developed for any change in the American attitude. Over a year ago Secretary Hughes said this country could not recognize Russia until production had been made possible in that

PEOPLE'S SAYSO

Makes a Correction

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.
Editor Rushville Daily Republican:
In the series of meetings held in Rushville, Rev. E. L. House has taken occasion to misrepresent and criticize Christian Science though, if one may judge by his own statements, he knows very little about the subject. A few of the criticisms were reported in your issue of May 20 and this letter is submitted in correction.

It is evident that this critic is confused by the fact that he believes Christian Science depends upon human will, suggestion and similar practices to heal the sick, and then he is taking materiality as his premise in trying to understand or judge the spiritual teachings of Christian Science. Both of these lines of reasoning are wrong. Christian Science operates under the authority of Christ Jesus and heals by the power of God, infinite Mind, just as he did, not by any process of mortal mind. Its basis is spiritual and its teachings and practice are founded upon and ordained by the Bible. It is the same spiritual Truth Christ Jesus taught and demonstrated, and Christian Scientists are following his command in doing the works he said his followers should do. Their works are proved by those "signs" which "follow them that believe."

It is difficult to follow the line of reasoning which would condemn Mrs. Eddy and Christian Science for using the Christian Science textbook as a "key to the Scriptures" and at the same time defend the theological practice of studying commentaries, the "original" text, etc., which, to quote the speaker, is "to find the truth there." For centuries mankind has been delving into the darkness of materiality in the effort to understand the Bible, only to meet with confusion, doubt and contradictions. The spiritual interpretation of the Scriptures as given by Mrs. Eddy in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" has revealed the truth in the Bible heretofore obscured by material beliefs and practices. With this interpretation, the Bible becomes an open book that "he who runs may read" and mankind is thereby enabled to prove the power of God's spiritual law even as Jesus said "them that believe" should do. Note Mrs. Eddy's statement in her book, "First Church of Christ, Scientists and Miscellany": "Rightly to read and to practice the Scriptures, their spiritual sense must be discerned, understood and demonstrated. God being Spirit, His language and meaning are wholly spiritual. Uninspired knowledge of the translations of the Scriptures have imparted little power to practice the Word." "On the swift pinions of spiritual thought man rises above the letter, law, or morale of the inspired Word to the spirit of Truth, whereby the Science is reached that demonstrates God. When the Bible is thus read and practiced, there is no possibility of misinterpretation." (Page 238).

As has been the policy of this speaker for a number of years, an erroneous impression of the Christian Science teaching relative to Christ Jesus was injected into the sermons delivered in Rushville. Christian Science accepts and acknowledges the Christ unequivocally and without reservation. It follows the teachings, commands and practices of the Master and is fulfilling the mission of all true followers of him in preaching the gospel, cleansing the sinner, healing the sick and, in an ever increasing measure, overcoming the power of death. Even though this critic condemns Christian Science because, as he asserts, it "denies the deity of Jesus," Christian Science stands unreservedly upon the statements of the Master that he was not God, but as he said, the Son of God. This is proved by many things that he said, and especially by his rebuke to the young man who called him "good Master." To him he said, "Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God." Had Jesus been God he certainly would not have thus denied his own being. Furthermore, had he been God, as this critic would have people believe, his prayer, as recorded in the 17th chapter of John would have been a mockery.

In reference to the Christian Science teaching as to the Christ, Mrs. Eddy says:

"Again I reiterate this cardinal point: There is but one Christ, and Christ is divine—the Holy Ghost, or spiritual idea of the divine Principle, Love. In this scientific statement, more transcendental than the belief of our brethren, who regard Jesus as God and the Holy Ghost as the third person in the Godhead? When Jesus said, 'I and my Father are one,' and 'my Father is greater than I,' this was said in the sense that one ray of light is light, and it is one with light, but it is not the full-orbed sun. Therefore we have the authority of Jesus for saying Christ is not God, but an impartation of Him  The Christ was Jesus' spiritual selfhood; therefore Christ existed prior to Jesus, who said, 'Before Abraham was, I am.'" (Message of 1901 to The Mother Church, page 8).

Christian Science is a pure spiritual religion, seeking only to bring to mankind salvation from sin, sickness and all other discordant conditions that have come upon mankind through the false beliefs of matter and materiality. It brings a full present-day salvation and shows that the application and demonstration of God's law is a possibility right here and now. Countless multitudes of intelligent people are today bearing grateful testimony to Christian Science for the joy, peace and health they have experienced through its ministrations.

Yours sincerely,
CHARLES W. HALE,
Christian Science Committee on Publication.

YOUTHFUL MENACE IN FIELD OF ATHLETICS

Mere Infant in Teens Holds Goodly Share of Records.

Host of Youngsters Have Been Show-

of Sport.

What chance have the old folks in their twenties or the senile athletes who have passed the thirty-year mark with the host of mere infants in their teens who hold such a goodly share
of athletic records and consider it no achievement at all to smash a record
almost at will?

There is Johnny Weissmuller who at seventeen lays claim to no less than 18 world's records in the water, and is said to be the greatest swimmer of all times; Bud Houser, also seventeen, who defeated Pat McDonald in the

in his teens; Eileen Riggan, a member of the Olympic team and winner of the world's fancy diving champion-

Heleen Wainwright and Ethelda Bleib-

These and a host of others have been showing their heels to their el-

sport and hanging up new records with surprising ease and frequency.

Doors. Little Bobbie Jones was told to write an essay on "Doors" and the effort which he sent in was as follows:

"Most houses have all the doors they need, and no house is complete without at least one. The two main differences between a door and a gate is, first, their opposite location; and second, that people have much less respect for a gate, and would rather kick it than knock on it.

"But a gate is more useful than a door because it does everything that a door can do, and besides that, it can be climbed over, and often is.

"The doorhandle is a small but important part of the door which people never appreciate until it comes off. Most people never notice the doorhandle unless it is brought to their notice on account of having jam spread all over it.

"Doors are great things to give people privacy, and would give them still more if it wasn't for the keyholes."

Couldn't Mean It. "Why don't you test your strength with your constituents by offering to retire?"

"A man in public life should never do that," said the eminent statesman.

"Why not?"

"It's the quickest way I know of to get a reputation for insincerity."

Mountain of Sulphur. By looking on a map of the South seas, one can find the New Hebrides, about 900 miles east of Queensland, Australia, and southeast of the Solomons. At the north end of the group is an island called Vanua Lava. This island is a mountain, a big one, 1,600 feet high and covering an area of 100 square miles. But the remarkable thing about it is that it is composed wholly of sulphur. Nothing like it is to be found anywhere in the world.

WILLIAM E. DONOVAN PAYS DEATH PENALTY

Is Electrocuted At Michigan City Prison Early Today For The Murder Of His Wife

DENIES GUILT TO THE LAST

Michigan City, Ind., June 1. —Wm. E. Donovan was executed here early today for the murder of his wife.

The execution followed the plea to Governor McCray of Donovan's 17 year old daughter, Mabel, that the father pay the extreme penalty.

Friends of Donovan were attempting to obtain clemency for Donovan when the daughter wrote the governor demanding the death sentence.

Donovan walked to the electric chair with no show of nervousness.

The execution was at 12:08 a. m. Rev. Amos Wood, prison chaplain entered the death cell at 10 p. m. yesterday and remained with Donovan until the execution was performed in the hospital ward.

Donovan, who was disappointed in the hope that his aged father and mother would visit him before the execution, repeated again and again to the chaplain that he was innocent of the crime.

Mrs. Donovan, according to the man's story was killed accidentally when the revolver, with which she was threatening him discharged as he was trying to take it away from her.

Just before he was led from the death cell to the chair he wrote a note on the fly leaf of his testament. It was addressed to his mother:

"I am going to a land of rest, where no one need worry," the note read.

TO TEST OSCULATION WITH A KISSOGRAPH

Indiana University Professors Claim to Have Perfected a Machine to Test the Difference

IS MEASURED BY A GAUGE

Bloomington, Ind. June 1—Sweethearts get a kissograph to tell whether his or her love is sincere.

So say Indiana university professors here who claim to have perfected a machine to test the difference between a Judas osculation and the proverbial first boyhood kiss excitedly delivered in the moonlight.

The cold technical professors call the apparatus a plethysomograph.

In order to test the subject, he or she places the hand and arm into a rubber glove surrounded by water which is contained in a glass jar into which is inserted a gauge to measure the pressure of the water which is exerted when the arm expands, according to the professors.

This expansion which occurs when the subject is kissed they claim is a direct measure of the emotions. Greater the expansion the more emotional the kiss.

TO REMODEL HOME

Dr. Frank H. Green is preparing to move his house one-half block south from its present location to the corner of Perkins and Third streets. It will be raised and extensively remodeled.

"One week ago there finally was corralled on this platform at the republican state convention more different kinds and varieties of Indiana republicans than were ever assembled under one roof. It was originally intended to confine the speaking program to one day, but the varieties were so numerous and the stage was so small that it was finally decided to extend it over a second day.

"There was also a big element of safety involved in the decision. To put Watson and Beveridge, and Jewett and Shank under one roof, on the same platform, on one day was asking too much of any program committee or any police force, even that presided over by the shrewd and experienced eye of Herman Rikhoff.

"The contest of facts, figures and physical endurance lasted two days and in all fairness to Lawrence Lyons we want to say that it was a contest worth while. Watson won in physical endurance; Beveridge, true to form, glittered in generalities; McCray as usual floundered in figures; Jewett bombarded Shank; and Shank, himself who wouldn't know a statute book from a Sears-Roebuck catalog discoursed learnedly on pending legislation.

"It was a great contest. The very audaciousness of the affair was refreshing and it will go down in history as a great success, physically, historically and scientifically for the reason that no one was hurt."

Former Governor Samuel M. Ralston outlined the main issues upon which he will seek election to the United States senate on the democratic ticket, in an address before the convention today.

Briefly he pledged his support to the following:

1. The four-power pact as the "next best thing" to the league of nations which he said is now dead so far as the United States is concerned.

2. Promotion of foreign countries and closer relations with foreign nations.

3. A lower tariff than that proposed in the Fordney bill now before the congress.

4. Any movement in the administration of any president—democratic or republican—to prevent future wars.

"While I am a party man I want it understood that if I go to Washington, my partisanship will cease at the water's edge and I will stand in support of President Harding or any other president who is making a sincere effort to prevent war," he said.

"And I am going to do all I can in this campaign to persuade Senator Beveridge, my distinguished opponent, to speak at least one friendly word in support of the four-power pact. He has not done it yet but I am hoping that he will do it soon so that when he does it, it will not look like he did it as a matter of expediency.

"And I suspect before the campaign is over, the republican party of Indiana will be ashamed of itself for not mentioning by name the four-power pact in the platform it adopted in this hall a few days ago.

"Everybody knows that President Harding and his cabinet regard the four-power pact as the greatest achievement of his administration and that they wanted it mentioned by name.

"Was it necessary to refrain from mentioning it in the platform to get the promise of anyone to support the president's administration? If so, I fear the president will have tough sledding before 1924."

Ralston pledged himself to give as much attention as possible to state affairs. He recalled his term as governor of Indiana, when the state was out of debt and enjoying the best financial standing it had seen in history.

"Home Rule" Faction In State Convention Suffers Defeat

the state board of accounts to its statutory duties of auditing and accounting.

6. Return to the counties of automobile license fees and inheritance taxes instead of their surrender to the state highway commission.

7. Decentralization of state government power by abolition of useless boards and commissions.

8. Enactment of "a fair" legislative apportionment law.

9. Return of salaries to all public officials to a pre-war basis.

There was a bitter fight over the plank concerning the public service commission. The "home rule" faction advocated an outright declaration for repeal of the utility law and the conservatives wanted to praise the commission activities during the administration of Former Governor Ralston, the democratic senatorial nominee, and to condemn its administration during the republican rule.

A movement for a minority report of the committee demanding repeal of the utility, highway commission and board of accounts law was started in the delegation from the twelfth district.

Unnecessary.

A congregation of negroes was used to hearing sermons that harped continually on hell and eternal punishment. One hot summer day the preacher made no mention of hell. One of the congregation asked him why he had omitted it. "Everything in season," he replied. "De thabmometah wuz at ninety-foh while I wuz a-preachin' dat sthmon. Hell spoke foh itself, I reckon."

Beauty in the South.

In the South the crape myrtle becomes a small tree and turns a brilliant bronze almost or quite red, says the American Forestry Magazine. It is much grown for its summer and early fall flowers, but it also has value for the color of its ripening foliage on the approach of cold weather.

TO HOLD SERVICES SUNDAY

Arlington Red Men Will Be Assisted By Homer And Gwynneville.

The Red Men lodge of Arlington will hold their annual memorial exercises next Sunday, and the Mimosa Tribe of Arlington will be assisted by tribes from Homer and Gwynneville. The three will meet at the Red Men hall in Arlington at 1:30 prompt, and will march in uniforms to the cemetery where the main address will be delivered by Judge Hines of Noblesville, who is great junior sagamore of the order. The parade will leave the hall at two o'clock, but all those who will march are urged to be ready at 1:30.

The services are expected to attract a large crowd. The lodge at Arlington will provide lunch for the guests before and after the ceremonies, at the hall in Arlington.

AMUSEMENTS

Western At Mystic Friday.

"The Moonshine Menace" is a series of exciting Western incidents well knit together into a terse, cohesive plot. It is the story of a young mountaineer whose love for his own people takes him back to them with devotion and helpfulness in the name of the law, a motive, however, which they thoroughly misinterpret. Not having outgrown their moonshining proclivities, Bonbright's people do not appreciate that there were cases where justice might act in their favor. Not so with Judith. The woman's intuition gives the newcomer his rightful place, while her cousins are declaring he has returned to "Turkey Tracks" to spy upon them. Then love enters in and makes the girl extremely alert to all that is brewing around her—and there is more than moonshine, for her cousins have determined to run the young Justice of the Peace out of town, or worse. Judith's cousin, "Blatch," in love with her, therefore has double reason for hating Bonbright. He is the ringleader of the family and the schemes which were hatched and foiled keep the audience at high tension through five fast-moving acts.

Helen Holmes, a unique figure in moving picture circles, and Leo D. Maloney carry the leading roles. They have the strongest kind of support from Paul C. Hurst, whose name is well known to the fans; as is also true of William Brunton and Thomas J. Lingham. The screen story is an adaptation of the famous novel by Alice MacGowan, famous for his action pictures. Mr. McGowan directed the Eddie Polo serials and his name is well known.

Finley Bigger who was registrar of the United States treasury during the administration of Pierce and Buchanan, was also an honored member of this bar.

General Pleasant A. Hackleman, a young and very talented lawyer, came here in 1836, and took a commanding position in the legal and political affairs of this county which he held until the time of his death. When the Union was threatened he went to the defense of the country and fell mortally wounded in the battle before Corinth, on October 3, 1863.

Robert S. Cox, the grandfather of Miles S. Cox, came here a little afterwards. He was a profound lawyer and a safe counsellor and a splendid practitioner.

In the very early days, Rush county was in a circuit composed of many counties and many distinguished lawyers from surrounding cities engaged in the practice here. Among these were Oliver H. Smith, afterwards United States senator; James Rariden afterwards member of congress; Caleb B. Smith, representative in congress, and secretary of the interior under President Lincoln; Oliver P. Morton, Indiana's famous war governor; also Thomas A. Hendricks, James G. Brown, Samuel W. Parker, Judge Perry, Samuel H. Perkins, David Killgore, John C. Matson, John Ryan, Andrew Davidson and Martin M. Ray. In the latter half of the century there were also many legal practitioners who added greatly to the reputation of this bar by their signal ability, either as advocates or counsellors. Such men

STANDPAT LEADERS FOCUSED ON IOWA

Are Watching Outcome of Primary Election in That State. Hoping That Old Guard Will Conquer

TWO STATES MISSED FIRE

Indiana and Pennsylvania Republicans Nominated Former Progressives, Inflicting a Blow

By LAWRENCE MARTIN
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)
Washington, June 1.—Old guard leaders, alarmed by the force of the progressive sweep which lost them the senatorship in Indiana and the governorship in Pennsylvania, have summoned their forces for a determined stand in Iowa against the advancing tide.

Since the Indiana and Pennsylvania primaries revealed the extent of the disaffection with present political conditions, the old guard has been sending out anxious inquiries into Iowa, where the next important senatorial primary will occur. Standpat chieftains here were confident today that Iowa would enable them to discount the Indiana and Pennsylvania results as accidental and isolated examples.

The Iowa primaries will be held June 5, one week hence. Old guard leaders have for weeks been strengthening their lines in that state, foreseeing the loss of Pennsylvania and Iowa.

Voters there will be called on to determine whether the progressive movement is to be given further impetus, increasing the chances of progressive victories in New Jersey and other states, or whether it is to sustain a set back.

Standpat leaders have split the progressive forces. There are six candidates for the republican senatorial nomination for the seat now filled by appointment of Charles A. Rawson, who took Senator Kenyon's

SUCH PAINS AS THIS WOMAN HAD

Two Months Could Not Turn in Bed.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Finally Restored Health

Seattle, Washington.—"I had dragging pains first and could not stand on my feet, then I had chills and fever and such pains in my right side and a hard lump there. I could not turn myself in bed and could not sleep. I was this way for over two months, trying everything any one told me, until my sister brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly until all the hard pains had left me and I was able to be up and to do my work again. The hard lump left my side and I feel splendid in all ways. I know of many women it has helped."—Mrs. G. RICHARDSON, 4640 Orcas St., Seattle, Washington.

This is another case where Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought results after "trying everything any one told me" had failed.

If you are suffering from pain, nervousness and are always tired; if you are low spirited and good for nothing, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You may not only relieve the present distress, but prevent the development of more serious trouble.

"HOME RULE" FACTION IN STATE CONVENTION SUFFERS DEFEAT

Motion to Consider All Resolutions Independent of Platform Committee is Lost

WOULD THROW OUT REPORT

Defeat of Motion Closes Way For Introduction of Radical Plank That Was Proposed

PLEDGE TAX REDUCTION

Several Planks With This End in View Included in Democratic Platform to be Presented

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., June 1.—The "home rule" faction in the democratic state convention suffered its initial defeat today when a motion to consider all resolutions independent of the platform committee was voted down 680 to 577.

This would have thrown the conservative report of the platform committee out of the convention and would have left the way open for consideration of the radical planks calling for abolition of the public service commission, board of accounts and highway commission and similar steps.

Charles Giffin, delegate from Vigo county, moved consideration of all resolutions without delay and W. W. Spencer, leader of the "home rule" faction, seconded it.

The motion was defeated at the instance of E. H. Campbell of Anderson. It was presented while the oratory was at its height and would have disrupted the orderly procedure.

Lower cost of operating state government and consequent reduction in taxes is the outstanding pledge of Indiana democracy in the fall campaign as outlined by the platform committee for adoption by the state convention today.

Several planks toward this end were laid by the committee in all night session. Among them were:

1. Repeal of the present tax law and re-enactment of the law previously in effect.

2. "Home rule" in the matter of bond issues by passage of a law requiring a referendum on issues over a certain limit.

3. Amendment of the utility law to restore the usefulness of the public service commission, or if this is not done, repeal of the law in its entirety.

4. Enactment of legislation to limit the power of the state board of health in condemnation of schools and other public buildings.

5. Limitation of the activities of

GRAND JURY BRINGS IN 11 INDICTMENTS

Warrants For Arrest of Alleged Law Violators Are Issued Today—Charges Not Known

50 WITNESSES IN INQUIRY

The grand jury concluded their investigations late Wednesday afternoon, and returned eleven indictments as the result of their two day session, when they met last Friday, and again yesterday.

Warrants for the arrest of the eleven offenders were ordered drawn this morning by the court, but it may be several days before all of the arrests are made. The nature of the eleven charges will not be disclosed until the arrests are made.

While the investigators were in session, there were about 50 witnesses from various parts of the county before them, and judging from recent activities in some localities, it is believed that intoxication and perhaps gaming charges might be included in the list.

The present term of court will not end until June 30, when the summer vacation of two months will begin then.

VANNUYS SOUNDS STATE KEYNOTE

Charges Republicans With Extravagance and Mismanagement in State and National Governments

OPENS DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN

Challenges G. O. P. in Behalf of "United, Confident, Determined" Democracy in Speech

Indianapolis, June 1.—Charging republicans with extravagance and mismanagement in state and national governments, and with questionable handling of state funds, Frederick VanNuyss struck the keynote of the democratic campaign in Indiana today.

VanNuyss challenged the G. O. P. in behalf of "a united, confident and determined" democracy while addressing the democratic state convention in the capacity of temporary chairman.

"The democratic party today once more renews its allegiance to the faith of the fathers," he said. "Upon the rugged principles of frugality, simplicity and honesty, we build a nation rich and by the return to those same virtues we propose to build the nation strong."

"In this spirit, proud of our past and confident of our future, the democratic party of Indiana today invokes your aid."

VanNuyss laid the blame for business depression upon republican rejection of the Versailles treaty and refusal to "cooperate in the subsequent economic conferences." American trade expansion depends upon world conditions, VanNuyss said, and business stagnation would never have visited the United States if European markets were opened.

In this connection he criticized Senators New and Watson for their votes against the league of nations covenant.

Opening his address, VanNuyss referred to the recent republican state convention as follows:

"In the past we had believed that the democratic party had been the heir to all possible party disaffections and conflicting personal ambitions, but in light of recent developments, in the republican party we now look with complacency and composure upon our petty differences of the past and like a chosen people exclaim: 'Behold how good and pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity.'"

A Bible Thought Each Day

Beginning with today, the Daily Republican will print each day at the end of the editorial column one verse from the Bible with the heading, "Bible Thought For Today." The selections are made by the Back to the Bible Bureau, Cincinnati, which is now supplying newspapers in the United States with a combined circulation of one million.

The Back to the Bible Bureau was organized January 1, 1920, and was incorporated October 5, 1921. The purpose as set forth in the charter granted by the secretary of State of Ohio reads as follows:

"The object of the Bureau is to secure the co-operation of editors and publishers throughout the United States and other countries, in an effort to reach the great masses of the people daily with a helpful and inspiring Bible message, and thus inculcate in the minds of readers a greater reverence for the Supreme Ruler and a desire for better things in government and all industrial and social relations."

Old Receipts Are To Be Displayed At The Centennial

Documents Dating Back to 1827 And 1835 Respectively Loaned to Relics Committee by Nora G. Rardin, Whose Father, One Shows, Paid 48 Cents Tax on Horse and 3 Cows.

INVITATIONS BEING SENT OUT

The county centennial relics committee has two interesting documents dating back to the early period of the county. One is a receipt for taxes and the other is a receipt for payment of a loan of $20 given by William Rardin to his son, William Rardin, Jr.

Both are the property of Nora G. Rardin and have been promised to the committee for display at the centennial relics exhibit.

The receipt for taxes discloses that taxes in those days were not the source of complaint that they are today for William Rardin, Jr., father of Nora Rardin, only paid 48 cents taxes on a horse and three cows.

The receipt read as follows: "Received of William Rardin, Jr., 48 cents state, county and township tax on 1 horse, 3 cows for year 1827."

J. W. ROBERTSON, Treasurer.

The receipt given when a loan was repaid was complete in that it covered all time. It was as follows:

"Received of William Rardin, Junior 20 dollars of borrowed money, it being all lawful demands against him from the beginning of

DEFENSE RESTS IN CARL MURDER CASE

Clara Gibson Carl, Alleged Feminine Bluebeard, Last to Testify Before State Begins Rebuttal

ARGUMENTS STARTED TODAY

Defendant Meets Every Situation In Cross Examination With Apparent Sincerity

(By United Press)

Shelbyville, Ind., June 1.—Attorneys for Clara Gibson Carl, alleged feminine bluebeard, rested their case today in her murder trial on a charge of poisoning Frank Carl her second husband.

The widow was the last to testify in the defense. The state immediately started introducing rebuttal testimony and it appeared the arguments would be ended tonight.

Mrs. Carl exposed herself to merciless cross-examination yesterday afternoon and during the fifteen minutes she was on the stand today.

While the state shook the alleged skeletons in the closet of her past life, she met every situation with frankness and apparent sincerity. When some questions were hurled at her, the reply would be:

"I want to be honest in this. I don't remember. I don't know. I can't say."

Leaning forward over the witness stand, the woman clasped her hands before her and answered the questions in a clear voice ringing with controlled emotions.

At times she paused briefly before making her answers and at other times she appealed to the court to be permitted to explain certain points more fully without being required to answer merely "yes" or "no."

The woman as she faced the attorneys and the jury seemed to have no fear of the outcome of the battle. She emphatically denied she ever bought, arsenic, and that she administered poison to anyone.

Defense attorneys didn't seek to refute testimony which the state had introduced to show that Mrs. Carl had also poisoned Alonzo Carl father of Frank, and Robert Gibson, her first husband.

AN ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE IS SEEN

Maurita Buell, 15, Milroy High School Girl, Found With Bullet Wound in Her Breast

ON THRESHOLD OF HER HOME

Bullet Will Not be Removed Unless Blood Poisoning Develops—Cause of Attempt Uncertain

What is believed to have been an attempt at suicide took place Tuesday afternoon in Milroy when Maurita Buell, age 15, a high school student of that place, was found prostrate in the front door of the Buell home with a bullet in her chest, and unless complications arise, she is expected to recover.

Many rumors are afloat in Milroy concerning the affair, and it is stated that the young girl attempted suicide once before but a revolver was taken from her.

According to the rumors, it is stated that Miss Buell had been having trouble with her sweetheart, a school boy of that place, and because things had not gone just to suit her, she is believed to have turned the gun on herself with the purpose of taking her life.

The revolver, which was a small 22 calibre, was discharged close to her breast, and the cartridge lodged above her heart, and between that vital organ and her lungs. The bullet was not removed yet today, as physicians decided to wait until developments arose which would make it necessary for an operation.

An aunt of the girl was the only one at home at the time, and she heard the shot, and ran immediately to the front of the house, where she discovered the girl lying across the threshold in a unconscious condition.

It is stated that there was no one in sight, and that the girl has refused to discuss the matter with her friends. The accident happened about 3:30 Tuesday afternoon.

The physicians are afraid that blood poisoning may develop from the bullet, but it is understood that they will not attempt to get it out unless it is absolutely necessary to do so in order to save her life.

The girl, who is said to be very attractive, is the daughter of Bert Buell.

Justice J. P. Stech Finds For the Plaintiff, Fred Hilligoss

A suit to replevin a horse valued at $150 was heard in Justice Stech's court Wednesday, and the court awarded Fred Hilligoss, plaintiff in the action, the right to replevin the horse from Larry Richey and Thomas Shroyer, the two defendants. The plaintiff filed the suit last week, in which he alleged that the two defendants were unlawfully retaining the animal, and at that time the court took charge of the horse until the case could be settled.

The evidence was completed late in the afternoon, and the decision in the matter was entered this morning. It is understood that the defendants will file an appeal to the circuit court on the decision.

REAL ESTATE TAX VALUES OFF A FOURTH

Assessors Reports at Hand Indicate Decline of Twenty-Five Per Cent in Assessments.

REVIEW BOARD MEETS JUNE 5

Although all of the township assessors have not made a report on the spring assessment of real estate and personal property to the county assessor, Earl F. Priest, judging from the reports which have been made, land and improvements will average about $136 an acre in taxation value. This is the average which the reports now at hand show.

After the horizontal increase had been put on by the state tax board in 1919, when the last assessment of real estate was made, the average was $182 an acre. If the average this year proves to be $136, it will represent a decrease of twenty-five per cent. The county assessor predicted before the assessing season began that the real estate tax values would fall off about one-fourth.

The county board of review meets next Monday to review the assessments of property of all classes. The board will be in session until July 12, the law providing that in counties with a population of less than 20,000, the board should be in session thirty-eight running days. There are six Sundays during this period, which means the board will be in actual session thirty-two days.

County's Pioneer Lawyers

Attorneys Who Practiced Law Here During 100 Years of Rush County's Existence Distinguished Themselves in Many Fields of Activities, Becoming Senators, Cabinet Members, Governors and Holding High Judicial Positions.

By WILL M. SPARKS

Since 1822 more than two hundred attorneys have been admitted to practice in the court of Rush county, not including honorary admission or non-resident attorneys admitted in recent years. It must be remembered that in considering the men who practiced at this bar in the earlier years we view them at a great distance in the point of time, for it is now more than one hundred years since the courts of justice were established in this county. The lawyer as well as everyone else is inclined to at least give true value to the abilities and characteristics of those who have preceded us and to minimize the same things with relation to the men who are now carrying on. This is due largely I think to the intervention of time and a failure to make the proper comparison between conditions as they then existed and as they now exist. The lawyer of today has a larger and more varied practice than his predecessor and by reason of the hundreds of decisions which have been rendered daily during the last fifty or more years, his work in preparing his cases is much greater than the lawyer of the earlier days when decisions were comparatively few, and the courts and the legal fraternity were engaged largely in the establishing of precedents, which of course required original thought but less research than now.

Many of the attorneys of this county and others who attended her courts became eminent in law, politics and public service. One of the most eminent men who first practiced at this bar was Charles H. Test. He came here a young man, able and ambitious. He greatly distinguished himself by his powerful and successful defense of Alexander Young, indicted for the murder of John Points in 1827, and from that time forward he occupied the first ranks in his profession. He was afterwards judge of the criminal court of Indianapolis.

Another early lawyer of great ability was Samuel Bigger, afterwards judge of the circuit court and later governor of the state. Hugh B. Eggleston was a splendid lawyer, a fine scholar and later distinguished himself at the New Orleans bar. W. J. Brown was prosecuting attorney for some years, was afterwards member of congress, secretary of state of Indiana and assistant postmaster general under James K. Polk.

DEATH BLOW GIVEN PROPOSED INQUIRY

House Rules Committee Revokes Its Action in Reporting Favorably Woodruff-Johnson Resolution

AIM AT JUSTICE DEPARTMENT

Washington, June 1.—The Woodruff-Johnson resolution providing for an investigation of the alleged laxity of the department of justice and the war department in prosecuting war grafters was given its death blow today.

By a vote of 7 to 4 the house rules committee revoked its action of May 3, when it ordered the resolution reported to the house.

Originally the committee voted 6 to 5 to pass the investigation.

Attorney General Daugherty announced he was going to devote all the time possible to the prosecution of pending war graft cases. The attorney general has given up his vacation and will not go to the National Bar association meeting at San Francisco.

Hinting to his assailants in congress, Daugherty said, "now that the grand jury is handy, anyone who really wants to help the government can do so voluntarily or otherwise and lend assistance in a dignified and decent way."

The attorney general himself does not consider himself above the law. Daugherty declined to answer Senator Watson's charge that he ordered the freeing of the large amount of liquor seized in New York and the freeing of the men involved.

SURE GUIDANCE:—In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths.—
Proverbs. 3:6.

Too Much Self

Over in the old world the war goes merrily on in their efforts to preserve peace.To the careful observer on this side of the Atlantic, however, there appears to be one necessary element that is almost entirely lacking. The welfare of humanity is forgotten. It has been side-tracked in favor of self-interest and greed.It is readily conceded that the nations desire lasting peace, but each wants that peace on terms that predominate in their own favor.The league of nations is a failure for that reason and the Genoa confab was tarred with the same brush.Now they are planning for a future meet to be held at The Hague, and unless history reverses itself the same road will be traveled there.President Harding's declaration to send American delegates to The Hague conference next month was just what was expected. It would have been most surprising if the administration had seen fit to accede to the allied invitation.The conditions that will surround the meeting at The Hague are no whit different from those attending the conference at Genoa, and no reason has developed for any change in the American attitude. Over a year ago Secretary Hughes said this country could not recognize Russia until production had been made possible in thatcountry, neither could credit be extended until capital is safeguarded in its investments.The diplomats of Europe have seemingly unable to comprehend that proposition, and Mr. Hughes has been compelled to repeat it many times since it was first uttered.Nothing of a lasting nature can be accomplished in world adjustment until humanity triumphs over selfish greed, and that day has yet to come.This government should speak softly and keep its powder dry.
Wars are not over yet. Until humanity sprouts wings we will continue to fight.We were unable to remain out of the last war, and the next one will draw us in, if it is on a world scale.For this reason this country should be maintained in a state of reasonable and common sense preparedness.General Pershing, preparedness advocate and the American Legion want the regular army to remain at 150,000 enlisted men. Congress wants to cut it down to 115, 000.If you were called upon to defend yourself against an enemy armed with a modern high powered rifle how would you like to depend upon an old fashioned blunderbuss?When you want coal call WINK-LERS.

In pulling down others, you go down, too.

In buying a marriage license, you pay your money and take your chance."It might have been" are sad words, but "it was" are sadder still to folks seeking divorce.In playing poker, a good hand is often not good enough.What we need are novels telling of life after marriage rather than before.

PEOPLE'S SAYSO

Makes a Correction

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.
Editor Rushville Daily Republican:In the series of meetings held in Rushville, Rev. E. L. House has taken occasion to misrepresent and criticize Christian Science though, if one may judge by his own statements, he knows very little about the subject. A few of the criticisms were reported in your issue of May 20 and this letter is submitted in correction.It is evident that this critic is confused by the fact that he believes Christian Science depends upon human will, suggestion and similar practices to heal the sick, and then he is taking materiality as his premise in trying to understand or judge the spiritual teachings of Christian Science. Both of these lines of reasoning are wrong. Christian Science operates under the authority of Christ Jesus and heals by the power of God, infinite Mind, just as he did, not by any process of mortal mind. Its basis is spiritual and its teachings and practice are founded upon and ordained by the Bible. It is the same spiritual Truth Christ Jesus taught and demonstrated, and Christian Scientists are following his command in doing the works he said his followers should do. Their works are proved by those "signs" which "follow them that believe."It is difficult to follow the line of reasoning which would condemn Mrs. Eddy and Christian Science for using the Christian Science textbook as a "key to the Scriptures" and at the same time defend the theological practice of studying commentaries, the "original" text, etc., which, to quote the speaker, is "to find the truth there." For centuries mankind has been delving into the darkness of materiality in the effort to understand the Bible, only to meet with confusion, doubt and contradictions. The spiritual interpretation of the Scriptures as given by Mrs.
Eddy in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" has revealed the truth in the Bible heretofore obscured by material beliefs and practices. With this interpretation, the Bible becomes an open book that "he who runs may read" and mankind is thereby enabled to prove the power of God's spiritual law even as Jesus said "them that believe" should do. Note Mrs. Eddy's statement in her book, "First Church of Christ, Scientists and Miscellaneous":
"Rightly to read and to practice the Scriptures, their spiritual sense must be discerned, understood and demonstrated. God being Spirit, His language and meaning are wholly spiritual. Uninspired knowledge of the translations of the Scriptures have imparted little power to practice the Word. . . . On the swift pinions of spiritual thought man rises above the letter, law, or morale of the inspired Word to the spirit of Truth, whereby the Science is reached that demonstrates God. When the Bible is thus read and practiced, there is no possibility of misinterpretation." (Page 238).As has been the policy of this speaker for a number of years, an erroneous impression of the Christian Science teaching relative toChrist Jesus was injected into the sermons delivered in Rushville.
Christian Science accepts and acknowledges the Christ unequivocally and without reservation. It follows the teachings, commands and practices of the Master and is fulfilling the mission of all true followers of him in preaching the gospel, cleansing the sinner, healing the sick and, in an ever increasing measure, overcoming the power of death. Even though this critic condemns Christian Science because, as he asserts, it "denies the deity of Jesus," Christian Science stands unreservedly upon the statements of the Master that he was not God, but as he said, the Son of God. This is proved by many things that he said, and especially by his rebuke to the young man who called him "good Master." To him he said, "Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God." Had Jesus been God he certainly would not have thus denied his own being. Furthermore, had he been God, as this critic would have people believe, his prayer, as recorded in the 17th chapter of John would have been a mockery.In reference to the Christian Science teaching as to the Christ, Mrs. Eddy says:"Again I reiterate this cardinal point: There is but one Christ, and Christ is divine—the Holy Ghost, or spiritual idea of the divine Principle, Love. In this scientific statement, more transcendental than the belief of our brethren, who regard Jesus as God and the Holy Ghost as the third person in the Godhead? When Jesus said, 'I and my Father are one,' and 'my Father is greater than I,' this was said in the sense that one ray of light is light, and it is one with light, but it is not the full-orbed sun. Therefore we have the authority of Jesus for saying Christ is not God, but an impartation of Him. . . . The Christ was Jesus' spiritual selfhood; therefore Christ existed prior to Jesus, who said, 'Before Abraham was, I am.' (Message of 1901 to The Mother Church, page 8).Christian Science is a pure spiritual religion, seeking only to bring to mankind salvation from sin, sickness and all other discordant conditions that have come upon mankind through the false beliefs of matter and materiality. It brings a full present-day salvation and shows that the application and demonstration of God's law is a possibility right here and now.
Countless multitudes of intelligent people are today hearing grateful testimony to Christian Science for the joy, peace and health they have experienced through its min-istrations. Yours sincerely,
CHARLES W. HALE.Christian Science Committee on Publication.

YOUTHFUL MENACE IN FIELD OF ATHLETICS

More Infant in Teens Holds Goodly Share of Records.

Host of Youngsters Have Been Showing Their Heels to Their Elders in Their Respective Branches
of Sport.

What chance have the old folks in their twenties or the senile athletes
who have passed the thirty-year mark
with the host of mere infants in their teens who hold such a goodly share
of athletic records and consider it no
achievement at all to smash a record
almost at will?

There is Johnny Weissmuller who at seventeen years claim to no less than 18 world's records in the water, and
is said to be the greatest swimmer of
all times; Bud Houser, also seventeen,
who defeated Pat McDonald in the shot-put with ease; Vincent Richards, not yet twenty, and almost a veteran on the tennis courts; Glenn Collett,

in his teens; Eileen Riggan, a member of the Olympic team and winner of the world's fancy diving championship at the tender age of fourteen; Helen Wainwright and Ethelda Bleby-try, both expert swimmers.

These and a host of others have been showing their heels to their elders in their respective branches of sport and hanging up new records with surprising ease and frequency.

"CONVENTION GIRL"

Here is Miss Agnes Dohoney, who holds the title of "San Francisco's Convention Girl." She was adjudged one of the prettiest girl hostesses at the Democratic national convention in 1920; was presented with a gold delegate's badge by the Illinois delegation as the prettiest blonde at the Knights of Columbus supreme convention in 1921, and will be a prominent member of the reception committee for the second annual convention of the Disabled American World War Veterans, to take place in San Francisco June 29-30, 1922.

MONKEY IS OFFICE BOY

Her monkey, Jocko, is more than a pet, Miss Clara Miller, secretary to a prominent business man of Washington, declares, for she has taught him to be the most efficient message bearer for her. She says that she never has to leave her desk to carry papers to her employer's desk, for Jocko carries them and places them carefully.

Little Bobbie Jones was told to write an essay on "Doors" and the effort which he sent in was as follows:

"Most houses have all the doors they need, and no house is complete without at least one. The two main differences between a door and a gate is, first, their opposite location; and second, that people have much less respect for a gate, and would rather kick it than knock on it.

"But a gate is more useful than a door because it does everything that a door can do, and besides that, it can be climbed over, and often is.

"The doorknob is a small but important part of the door which people never appreciate until it comes off. Most people never notice the doorknob unless it is brought to their notice on account of having jam spread all over it.

"Doors are great things to give people privacy, and would give them still more if it wasn't for the keyholes."

Couldn't Mean It.
"Why don't you test your strength with your constituents by offering to retire?"

"A man in public life should never do that," said the eminent statesman.

"Why not?"
"It's the quickest way I know of to get a reputation for insincerity."

Mountain of Sulphur.
By looking on a map of the South seas, one can find the New Hebrides, about 900 miles east of Queensland, Australia, and southeast of the Solomons. At the north end of the group is an island called Vanua Lava. This island is a mountain, a big one, 1,600 feet high and covering an area of 100 square miles. But the remarkable thing about it is that it is composed wholly of sulphur. Nothing like it is to be found anywhere in the world.

WILLIAM E. DONOVAN PAYS DEATH PENALTY

Is Electrocutted At Michigan City Prison Early Today For The Murder Of His Wife

DENIES GUILT TO THE LAST

Michigan City, Ind., June 1.—Wm. E. Donovan was executed here early today for the murder of his wife.

The execution followed the plea to Governor McCray of Donovan's 17-year old daughter, Mabel, that the father pay the extreme penalty.

Friends of Donovan were attempting to obtain clemency for Donovan when the daughter wrote the governor demanding the death sentence.

Donovan walked to the electric chair with no show of nervousness.

The execution was at 12:08 a. m. Rev. Amos Wood, prison chaplain entered the death cell at 10 p. m. yesterday and remained with Donovan until the execution was performed in the hospital ward.

Donovan, who was disappointed in the hope that his aged father and mother would visit him before the execution, repeated again and again to the chaplain that he was innocent of the crime.

Mrs. Donovan, according to the man's story was killed accidentally when the revolver, with which she was threatening him, discharged as he was trying to take it away from her.

Just before he was led from the death cell to the chair he wrote a note on the fly leaf of his testament. It was addressed to his mother:

"I am going to a land of rest, where no one need worry," the note read.

TO TEST OSCULATION WITH A KISSOGRAPH

Indiana University Professors Claim to Have Perfected a Machine to Test the Difference

IS MEASURED BY A GUAGE

Bloomington, Ind. June 1.—Sweethearts get a kissograph to tell whether his or her love is sincere.

So say Indiana university professors here who claim to have perfected a machine to test the difference between a Judas osculation and the proverbial first boyhood kiss excitedly delivered in the moonlight.

The cold-technical professors call the apparatus a plethysmograph.

In order to test the subject, he or she places the hand and arm into a rubber glove surrounded by water which is contained in a glass jar into which is inserted a guage to measure the pressure of the water which is exerted when the arm expands, according to the professors.

This expansion which occurs when the subject is kissed they claim is a direct measure of the emotions. Greater the expansion the more emotional the kiss.

Dr. Frank H. Green is preparing to move his house one-half block south from its present location to the corner of Perkins and Third streets. It will be raised and extensively remodeled.

"One week ago there finally was corralled on this platform at the republican state convention more different kinds and varieties of Indiana republicans than were ever assembled under one roof. It was originally intended to confine the speaking program to one day, but the varieties were so numerous and the stage was so small that it was finally decided to extend it over a second day.

"There was also a big element of safety involved in the decision. To put Watson and Beveridge, and Jewett and Shank under one roof, on the same platform, on one day was asking too much of any program committee or any police force, even that presided over by the shrewd and experienced eye of Herman Rikhoft.

"The contest of facts, figures and physical endurance lasted two days and in all fairness to Lawrence Lyons we want to say that it was a contest worth while. Watson won in physical endurance; Beveridge, true to form, glittered in generalities; McCray as usual flourished in figures; Jewett bombarded Shank; and Shank, himself who wouldn't know a statute book from a Sear's-Roebuck catalog discoursed learnedly on pending legislation.

"It was a great contest. The very audaciousness of the affair was refreshing and it will go down in history as a great success, physically, historically and scientifically for the reason that no one was hurt."

Former Governor Samuel M. Ralston outlined the main issues upon which he will seek election to the United States senate on the democratic ticket, in an address before the convention today.

Briefly he pledged his support to the following:

1. The four-power pact as the "next best thing" to the league of nations which he said is now dead so far as the United States is concerned.
2. Promotion of foreign countries and closer relations with foreign nations.
3. A lower tariff than that proposed in the Fordney bill now before the congress.
4. Any movement in the administration of any president—democratic or republican—to prevent future wars.

"While I am a party man I want it understood that if I go to Washington, my partisanship will cease at the water's edge and I will stand in support of President Harding or any other president who is making a sincere effort to prevent war," he said.

"And I am going to do all I can in this campaign to persuade Senator Beveridge, my distinguished opponent, to speak at least one friendly word in support of the four-power pact. He has not done it yet but I am hoping that he will do it soon so that when he does it, it will not look like he did it as a matter of expediency.

"And I suspect before the campaign is over, the republican party of Indiana will be ashamed of itself for not mentioning by name the four-power pact in the platform it adopted in this hall a few days ago.

"Everybody knows that President Harding and his cabinet regard the four-power pact as the greatest achievement of his administration and that they wanted it mentioned by name.

"Was it necessary to refrain from mentioning it in the platform to get the promise of anyone to support the president's administration? If so, I fear the president will have tough sledding before 1924."

Ralston pledged himself to give as much attention as possible to state affairs. He recalled his term as governor of Indiana, when the state was out of debt and enjoying the best financial standing it had seen in history.

the state board of accounts to its statutory duties of auditing and accounting.

6. Return to the counties of automobile license fees and inheritance taxes instead of their surrender to the state highway commission.

7. Decentralization of state government power by abolition of useless boards and commissions.

8. Enactment of "a fair" legislative apportionment law.

9. Return of salaries to all public officials to a pre-war basis. There was a bitter fight over the plank concerning the public service commission. The "home rule" faction advocated an outright declaration for repeal of the utility law and the conservatives wanted to praise the commission activities during the administration of Former Governor Ralston, the democratic senatorial nominee, and to condemn its administration during the republican rule.

A movement for a minority report of the committee demanding repeal of the utility, highway commission and board of accounts law was started in the delegation from the twelfth district.

Unnecessary.
A congregation of negroes was used to hearing sermons that harped continually on hell and eternal punishment. One hot summer day the preacher made no mention of hell. One of the congregation asked him why he had omitted it. "Everything in season," he replied. "De thabminetah wuz at ninety-foh while I wuz a-preachin' dat sthmon. Hell spoke foh itself, I reckon."

Beauty in the South.
In the South the crape myrtle becomes a small tree and turns a brilliant bronze almost or quite red, says the American Forestry Magazine. It is much grown for its summer and early fall flowers, but it also has value for the color of its ripening foliage on the approach of cold weather.

AMUSEMENTS

Western At Mystic Friday

"The Moonshine Menace" playing at the Mystic on Friday, is a series of exciting Western incidents well knit together into a terse, cohesive plot. It is the story of a young mountaineer whose love for his own people takes him back to them with devotion and helpfulness in the name of the law, a motive, however, which they thoroughly misinterpret. Not having outgrown their moonshining proclivities, Bonbright's people do not appreciate that there were cases where justice might act in their favor. Not so with Judith. The woman's intuition gives the newcomer his rightful place, while her cousins are declaring he has returned to "Turkey Tracks" to spy upon them. Then love enters in and makes the girl extremely alert to all that is brewing around her—and there is more than moonshine, for her cousins have determined to run the young Justice of the Peace out of town, or worse. Judith's cousin, "Blatch," in love with her, therefore has double reason for hating Bonbright. He is the ringleader of the family and the schemes which were hatched and foiled keep the audience at high tension through five fast-moving acts. Helen Holmes, a unique figure in moving picture circles, and Leo D. Maloney carry the leading roles. They have the strongest kind of support from Paul C. Hurst, whose name is well known to the fans; as is also true of William Brunton and Thomas J. Lingham. The screen story is an adaptation of the famous novel by Alice MacGowan, famous for his action pictures. Mr. McGowan directed the Eddie Polo serials and his name is well known.

ability and integrity. He once represented Rush county in the state legislature and afterwards removed to California where he died.

John B. Stitt was also prosecuting attorney in this circuit for a while and was later a circuit judge in Nebraska.

Finley Bigger who was registrar of the United States treasury during the administration of Pierce and Buchanan, was also an honored member of this bar.

General Pleasant A. Hackleman, a young and very talented lawyer, came here in 1836, and took a commanding position in the legal and political affairs of this county which he held until the time of his death. When the Union was threatened he went to the defense of I country and fell mortally wounded in the battle before Corinth, on October 3, 1863.

Robert S. Cox, the grandfather of Miles S. Cox, came here a little afterwards. He was a profound lawyer and a safe counsellor and a splendid practitioner.

In the very early days, Rush county was in a circuit composed of many counties and many distinguished lawyers from surrounding cities engaged in the practice here. Among these were Oliver H. Smith, afterwards United States senator; James Rariden afterwards member of congress; Caleb B. Smith, representative in congress, and secretary of the interior under President Lincoln; Oliver P. Morfitt, Indiana's famous war governor; also Thomas A. Hendricks, James G. Brown, Samuel W. Parker, Judge Perry, Samuel H. Perkins, David Killgore, John C. Matson, John Ryan, Andrew Davidson and Martin M. Ray.

In the latter half of the century there were also many legal practitioners who added greatly to the reputation of this bar by their signal ability, either as advocates or counsellors. Such men

STANDPAT LEADERS FOCUSED ON IOWA

Are Watching Outcome of Primary Election in That State, Hoping That Old Guard Will Conquer.

TWO STATES MISSED FIRE

Indiana and Pennsylvania Republicans Nominated Former Progressives, Inflicting a Blow

By LAWRENCE MARTIN
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)
Washington, June 1.—Old guard leaders, alarmed by the force of the progressive sweep which lost them the senatorship in Indiana and the governorship in Pennsylvania, have summoned their forces for a determined stand in Iowa against the advancing tide.

Since the Indiana and Pennsylvania primaries revealed the extent of the disaffection with present political conditions, the old guard has been sending out anxious inquiries into Iowa, where the next important senatorial primary will occur. Standpat chiefs here were confident today that Iowa would enable them to discount the Indiana and Pennsylvania results as accidental and isolated examples.

The Iowa primaries will be held June 5, one week hence. Old guard leaders have for weeks been strengthening their lines in that state, foreseeing the loss of Pennsylvania and Iowa.

Voters there will be called on to determine whether the progressive movement is to be given further impetus, increasing the chances of progressive victories in New Jersey and other states, or whether it is to sustain a set back.

place when the latter went on the federal bench. They are:

Representative Burton Sweet, former Representative Charles E. Pickett, State Senator Leslie Francis, Colonel Claude Stanley, Clifford Thorne, former Iowa railroad commissioner, and Smith Brookhart, who two years ago was a candidate against Senator Cummins.

Sweet is being touched by his friends as the "administration candidate." Pickett and Francis are in the race according to progressives leaders here, merely to help along the plan of old guard chiefs.

Brookhart is an ultra progressive. He and Thorne were political "buddies" in the sense that they championed the same things. They came from the same town.

Brookhart entered the race first. Thorne got in a few weeks ago, resigning as counsel for a farmers organization to make the race. Under Iowa laws, a candidate must receive 35 per cent of the vote cast to be legally nominated. With five candidates in the field, it is obviously difficult for any one to get a large proportion of the vote unless he has a strong organization.

If no candidate gets the 35 per cent the choice of a nominee is to be made by a state convention. That is what the old guard hopes for. By keeping all six in the race and having Thorne divide Brookhart's support among progressives, they expect to throw the senatorship into the convention, where their choice can more easily be selected.

SUCH PAINS AS THIS WOMAN HAD

Two Months Could Not Turn in Bed.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Finally Restored Health

Seattle, Washington.—"I had dragging pains first and could not stand on my feet, then I had chills and fever and such pains in my right side and a hard lump there. I could not turn myself in bed and could not sleep. I was this way for over two months, trying everything any one told me, until my sister brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly until all the hard pains had left me and I was able to be up and to do my work again. The hard lump left my side and I feel splendid in all ways. I know of many women it has helped."—Mrs. G. RICHARDSON, 4640 Orcas St., Seattle, Washington.

This is another case where Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought results after "trying everything any one told me" had failed.

If you are suffering from pain, nervousness and are always tired; if you are low spirited and good for nothing, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You may not only relieve the present distress, but prevent the development of more serious trouble.
